

KUALA LUMPUR UNIVERSITY OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY
吉隆坡科技大学

MPU 3283
Small Group Communication
June Intake 2025

Individual Assignment

My Personal Logo: A Report on My Visual Identity

Name: Mohamed Hussein Mohamed

Matric No: 251925403

Programme: Bachelor of Computer Science

Lecturer: Mohamad Shahiman Firdaus Mohd Latif

Semester: June Intake 2025

Date: 02 August 2025

Abstract

In this report, I will present a full analysis of my logo by answering the five questions in the brief assignment. First, I will explain the design concept, which is based on my initial, and the reasons for its geometric style. Next, I will describe the specific colors I chose and how they reflect my personality. After that, I will analyze my one-word tagline and its direct message. I will then share my strategy for promoting the logo on social media platforms like Instagram and LinkedIn. Finally, I will explain in detail how this logo benefits my life today and how it will influence my future career as a professional designer.

Why I Chose This Logo Design

For my self-identity logo, I chose a design that is personal and professional. The main part of the logo is a modern, stylized letter 'M', which is the first letter of my name, MOHAMMED.

A monogram serves as the name for this logo design. A monogram design connects directly to my identity because I selected it. The logo design enables clients and employers to recall my name easily. A personal brand depends on this logo because it establishes my individual identity for professional interactions. The design will endure as a professional representation of me throughout numerous years in my future career because it maintains a simple and timeless style.

The design approach of the logo stands as a fundamental aspect. The logo design incorporates geometric elements and minimalist features with its sharp angles and clean lines. The design elements in this logo reflect my professional approach and mental process. The requirements of computer science students demand both precision and logical thinking from their students. The angular design elements in this logo demonstrate my dedication to precise work and detailed attention. Writing computer code requires attention to all small details in the same way. The minimalist design approach makes the logo simple to remember because of its basic structure. A successful logo needs to deliver its message effectively regardless of its size whether it appears as a tiny website icon or a massive banner image. The straightforward design approach makes my logo adaptable for various uses while maintaining professional quality at all times.

The design achieves its deeper meaning through the use of layered elements. The green 'M' shape rests on top of the darkness while its sections overlap each other. The different skills in my profession exist as layers which symbolize their combined operation. The technical skills, which include office application proficiency, form one of the layers in this design. These different skills combine to make me a complete and valuable professional.

Why I Chose These Colors

My logo visual identity heavily depends on the colors I selected for it. The colors I selected have specific meanings which match my personality traits. The first color I chose is a vibrant lime green with the hex code #7ebb05.  This color is often associated with nature, growth, and new energy sources. My personality includes a creative aspect which this color represents. As a designer, my work is about creating fresh and new ideas. The intense green color displays my deep love for design work. The color conveys my dynamic personality and optimistic outlook on life. The energetic tone of this color indicates my active and positive nature. The logo becomes more noticeable because of this color which helps people remember my brand. The color creates an instant energetic and creative atmosphere whenever it appears on posters or websites.

The bright green color receives balance through the use of a deep dark blue with hex code #012334.  The color has a distinct emotional impact that differs from green. This color has a peaceful and professional and serious tone. The business world along with design professionals use dark blue to establish trust and intelligence and stability. The color indicates both reliability and expertise in their field for people and companies. My professional and technical identity finds representation through the dark blue color I selected. My creative side is represented by green but my responsible and skilled nature is shown through the blue color. It gives a message to clients and employers that i am trustworthy and that they can depend on me to deliver high-quality work.

The real meaning of my color choice comes from how these two colors work together. The combination of the energetic lime green and professional dark blue creates a balanced and complete message about who i am. This balance tells a story. It shows that i am a creative person who loves to design new things (represented by the green), but i am also a logical and disciplined person who is reliable and professional (represented by the blue). This high contrast also makes my logo very strong and easy to read. The bright green “M” stands out clearly against the dark blue background, making the design memorable. This combination perfectly represents my goal: to be both an innovative artist and a trusted expert in my field.

Why I Chose This Tagline

For my logo, I chose a tagline that is very simple and direct. The tagline is the single word “Designer.” I decided not to use a long sentence or a complex slogan because I believe a single, strong word can be much more powerful. A one-word tagline is easy for people to read and remember. It has a very clear impact it immediately answers the important question, “What does this person do?”. This choice shows that i am focused and clear about my professional identity. In branding, communicating a message in a simple and direct way is often the most effective method. It cuts through the noise and presents my main skill and passion in the most straightforward way possible, which helps make my brand more memorable.

The word “Designer” is more than just a job title for me; it is a key part of my identity. It represents what i am passionate about and the skill that I work hard to develop every day. By placing this word directly under my monogram, I am making a clear and bold statement about myself. I am telling the world that design is a central part of who i am and what I offer professionally. This choice also creates a strong sense of confidence. The tagline does not say “Aspiring Designer” or “I like to design”. It simply and confidently says “Designer”. This confidence is very important when communicating with potential clients or future employers. It shows them that i take my work seriously and that i am committed to being a professional in this field.

This simple tagline also works perfectly with the other elements of my logo. The monogram makes the brand personal, the colors show my balanced personality, and the tagline clearly defines my role. All three parts of the logo—the ‘M’ shape, the colors, and the text---work together to tell a complete and consistent story about my brand identity. Having such a clear tagline makes my brand very easy for people to understand. When someone sees my logo on my portfolio, a social media profile, or a future business card, there is no confusion. They will immediately know that i am a designer and what kind of service I offer. My tagline ensures that my message is understood instantly.

How I Will Promote My Logo on social media

To promote my logo and my personal brand, I will use a clear strategy for social media. My plan is to focus on platforms where visual content is the most important, because I am a designer. My main platforms will be Instagram and Behance. These websites are very popular among designers, artists, and potential clients who are looking for creative work. On both platforms, I will use my logo as my official profile picture. This is the first step to creating a consistent brand identity. I will then build a professional portfolio by posting high-quality images of my best designs, like the posters and banners I create. To protect my work and promote my brand at the same time, I will add that my brand is always visible when people see or share my work. I will also use relevant hashtags, such as #GraphicDesign, #LogoDesign, and #Creative, to help more people discover my profile and designs.

In addition to visual platforms, i will use LinkedIn for professional networking. LinkedIn is a very important platform for building a career, connecting with other professionals, and finding future job opportunities. I will use the same logo as my profile picture on LinkedIn to keep my brand identity consistent. This is very important, because if a potential employer sees my portfolio on Behance and then searches for me on LinkedIn, I will share my design projects, but I will also write also write short articles or posts about my creative process and the things I am learning. This shows that I am not just a designer, but also a thoughtful professional who is dedicated to improving my skills.

To reach a younger and wider audience, I will create short-form video content for platforms like Instagram, Reels, and TikTok. Video is a very popular and engaging format, and it can be a great way to show my skills in a dynamic way. For example, I can record time-lapse videos that show my process of creating a design from the first idea to the final product. I could also share quick videos with useful design tips for other students. A key part of my video strategy will be to include my logo in every video. I can have a short, simple animation of my logo that appears at the beginning or end of each clip. This is a very effective technique for increasing brand recognition and making my personal brand more memorable. The main goal across all platforms is consistency. By using the same logo, colors, and professional message everywhere, I will build a strong and trustworthy personal brand.

How This Logo benefits and Influences My Life

My personal logo is more than just an image for an assignment; it is an important tool that benefits my life right now as a student and will influence my professional future. Today, I used my logo as my official signature on all the design projects I completed. When I finish creating a poster or banner, I add my logo. This simple action immediately makes my work look more official and professional. It gives me a strong sense of ownership and pride in what I have created. It feels like signing a finished piece of art. This has a very positive influence on my confidence. Seeing my professional logo on my work encourages me to always maintain a high standard for everything I do. It also helps me to gather my different projects into a single, professional portfolio. This is very useful right now when I need to show my skills to my lecturers or for small freelance jobs.

Looking towards the future, I know my logo will be the foundation of my career as a professional designer. It is a long-term asset that will grow in value as my career grows. After I graduate, I plan to use this logo on my first professional business cards. I will also use it as the main brand for my online portfolio website, which will showcase my best work to potential employers and clients from all over the world.

The logo will become a key part of all my professional communication. For example, it will be in my email signature to make every email I send look more professional. When I start doing freelance work, my logo will be on my invoices and client proposals. This consistency across all my materials will make my personal brand look organized, serious, and trustworthy.

The most important future benefit of my logo is its ability to build recognition and trust over a long time. In the competitive world of design, clients and employers are more likely to hire someone who has a clear and professional brand identity. A memorable logo helps people to remember me and my work. Over the years, as I continue to produce high-quality designs, my logo will become a symbol of quality and reliability. When potential clients see my logo, I want them to feel confident that they are choosing a designer who will deliver excellent results. In this way, my logo is a statement about my serious commitment to my future.

Conclusion

In conclusion, this report has provided a detailed analysis of my personal identity. I have explained the strategic choices behind its design, from the personal monogram 'M' that connects the brand to my name, to the geometric style that shows precision. The colors were chosen carefully to represent the two sides of my personality: the creative energy of lime green and the professional stability of dark blue. Furthermore, my simple, one-word tagline, "Designer", was chosen to communicate my primary skill with confidence and clarity. All these elements work together to create a single, strong message about who I am.

The process has shown me that a logo is more than just a graphic for an assignment; it is an essential tool for my professional life. As I have explained, this logo is already benefiting me by giving me a professional way to present my work. My plan for promoting it on social media will help me build a consistent brand identity online. Most importantly, this logo serves as the foundation for my future career. It is a visual promise of my commitment to being a high-quality professional designer. I am confident that this logo will help me build trust with future clients and employers, and i am excited to use it throughout my professional journey.